INTRODUCTION-

n ordinary language, a crime is an illegal/unlawful act punishable by a state or other authority. Blackstone defined crime as an act committed or omitted in violation of a public law either forbidding or commanding it. The term 'crime' does not, in present day criminal law, have any basic and universally acknowledged definition, in spite of the fact that statutory definitions have been given for certain purposes. The people who get involved into criminal acts belong to different categories such as, they may be educated or uneducated, may be wealthy or impecunious in dejected and poverty stricken conditions, they are engaged completely different sorts of occupations such as, white collar jobs, blue collar jobs, minority jobs such as manual work or may be unemployed. They vary on the premise of family backgrounds, religious groups, ethnicity, caste, gender, socio-cultural and socio-economic backgrounds. In most cases, individuals who get involved into criminal and violent acts belong to distraught, disadvantaged and marginalized segments of the society, they are not taught sufficiently and are ordinarily engaged in minority employments. The predominance of crime is frequent in all the societies, whether it is rural or urban societies. It has been observed by many people that a society without crimes and criminals could be a paradise.

It is therefore fundamental to find out techniques/methods to avoid crime, at all costs if possible. The method of prevention ought to begin from the early childhood and continue till adolescence and youth. It is vital to execute crime prevention techniques, there are certain points that have to be compelled to be understood when the government is observing crime prevention techniques. These are, all the levels of the government ought to contribute a leadership role. The following article portrays the need of strong responses of government, NGOs, corporate sectors, citizens of the country and national commitment to a common cause i.e. the prevention of crime.

The crime rate in India has increased drastically over the years with the capital being the centre of the chaos. As per the National Crime Bureau Report 2019, New Delhi had the highest crime rate at 1049 per 1 lakh persons.[1] Between 2016-2018, the total number of First Information Reports/Complaints registered throughout the country was as high as 2.39 crores.[2] These figures indicate that there is large number of criminal activities taking place in the country and also makes us question the role played by the government and other state authorities to curb it.

One group may advocate, the best way to reduce the criminal incidents can be simply by giving stringent punishments to the offenders, because these punishments will act as a deterrent and create a fear in the mind of the felons before they think of committing an offence. If one introspects and look into the various legislations that penalises criminal activities (Indian Penal Code, 1860 and special enactments), it becomes clear that we already have harsh punishments in place for commission of grave offences, but then again, why is it so crime still seems to be rampant in our the society?

Other group may support, we need speedy justice system and to clear the backlog of cases so that the justice can be served within due time without any inordinate delay. One should not forget that it nearly took eight years to punish the culprits of Nirbhaya case. It is because our legal system works on the principle that an accused is innocent unless proven guilty. And even after conviction by the court, the convict will still have the right to file an appeal, revision, review, curative petition and mercy petition (as per the nature of offence). Since our legal system seems to recognise and protect a large number of rights, is the sole reason why it takes years and years altogether for the justice to be served. And this in turn makes the offenders think that, there is no one to hold them accountable and they can easily escape from the shackles of justice.

What we need today, is small measures and initiatives taken by the government and concerned State authorities that can help us reduce the criminal activities throughout the nation. Many people have suggested the youth employment, creation of job opportunities, providing more recreational outlets, and enhancing a sense of togetherness as measures to prevent crime at the community level.

Wrongdoing counteraction and control is an issue of worry to practically all social orders in the globe, because of the regular ascent in the responsibility pace of wrongdoing. Research has shown that, Africa and Americas are most elevated mainlands with crime percentages on the planet. This is on the grounds that, in these landmasses, the homicide rates is higher when contrasted with different locales. For instance, Americas murder rates, as indicated by UNODC report stand at 16.3 per 100,000 individuals, and Africa is 12.5 per 100,000 which is very more prominent than the overall normal of 6.2 per 100,000 individuals. That's what the most ridiculously upsetting issue is, the paces of wrongdoings are as yet expanding in a large portion of the nations inside these mainlands. Besides, It is extended that almost 33% of the world killings carried out in 2012 occurred in Africa Six African nations - Nigeria, South Africa, South Sudan, Libya and Kenya are positioned among the twenty country states with the largest number of crime

Assisting with serious areas of strength for building is one of the goals of this handbook to meet the United Nations core value of local area based activity. The impacts of wrongdoing on networks are especially significant on the grounds serious areas of strength for that networks can be one of the most impressive wrongdoing inhibitors, as will be examined underneath.

Basic needs for crime prevention:

Factors such as poverty, inequality, greed, relative deprivation, unemployment, lack of primary education, state violence, corruption and

It has been displayed in the gigantic task that casual social control (for example control by the local area acting immediately) can be more impressive than formal social control (the police and law enforcement framework). In any case, to be compelling there should be "social capital" (elements of social association, for example, organizations, standards and believe that work with coordination and participation for shared benefit) and powerful joint action.

Wrongdoing influences various individuals in various ways. However, few are unconcerned with the apparent degree of wrongdoing locally or the experience of being a casualty.

Viciousness decisively affects destitute individuals' prosperity, with regards to both business security and working of neighborhood social organizations;

Between 34% and 63 percent of individuals and families in the example of African nations were casualties of some wrongdoing in the year prior to the overview;

Furthermore, casualties in Africa are bound to be survivors of additional serious violations than casualties in created nations;

55% of violations in created nations include vehicles contrasted and 24 percent in Africa; 54% of wrongdoings in Africa include contact or thievery contrasted and 33 percent in created nations;

Savage wrongdoing in Africa is possibly significantly more serious than in created nations in light of the absence of effectively accessible free clinical benefits and government backed retirement;

The public authority needs to decrease wrongdoing - from drug managing, illegal exploitation and digital wrongdoing to land misrepresentation and bike robbery - by a quarter. It will guarantee, for instance, that the police, districts and insight administrations can rapidly trade depictions of wrongdoers, fingerprints and vehicle enlistment numbers.

Crime percentage in India has been widely growing from one year to another and sentiments rate hard ended up being low and that also courts have been giving very blend disciplines by using them vide discretionary powers. There are more chances to get liberal discipline by showed blameworthy gatherings as a result of free edge work of lawmaking body in fixing discipline for not many offenses in Code.

Wrongdoing is age-old miracle, significant laid out vindictive, imagined and made close by progression of man and consistently wound up broad disease frightening each and every general public. There are different reformative advances which can be taken to check different violations which are extending fiercely. It wound up creating cultural risk and it is consistent risk to customary is quiet presence. It is endemic in all councils and there isn't exactly any overall population which is totally liberated from risk of wrongdoing or totally controlled crime percentage, yet it has pushed toward becoming defense in India and accomplished annoying aspects particularly after Independence.

Everything considered crime percentage of any country picks prosperity and security of all inclusive community close by developmental pieces of that country. Wrongdoings can be tracked down in changing foundations and has impacted each portion of overall population. present age-old commonplace discipline system isn't proper to control offenses it should encounter outrageous change. simply single technique to control wrongdoings and to decrease its bound together terrible effects on overall population is driving genuine discipline to trustworthy individuals and realizing them right away.
